Council and Troops Hold Dedication Ceremony At Meeting

The Montevallo Girl Scout Council presented the Little House to the members of various troops Wednesday evening, February 1.

Members of the council and the troops met at the Little House at 7:30. Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, retiring commissioner, introduced Mrs. J. L. Appleton, who will serve as commissioner for the coming year. Mrs. Appleton welcomed the girls and introduced them to the council.

The senior troop dedicated the Little House to service, beauty, cheerfulness, and comradeship, in a candle light service.

Troop 2 illustrated the health and safety, hostess, photographer, and music and dancing badges in a series of silhouettes.

Troop 3 pantomimed the names of trees such as palm, poplar, pine, rubber, and fir.

Members of the Brownie pack (pre-Scout age girls) were present and took part in the group singing.

Mr. Bagwell took pictures of the interior and of several groups of Scouts and their leaders. We are very eager to see them.

Punch and cookies were served at the conclusion of the festivities.

Poultry Farm P

Mrs. W. E. Finley and Mrs. J. F. Wyatt Increase Income With Chickens and Eggs

With cheap cotton and a reduced acreage, it is very necessary for farmers to figure on some other cash crop to supplement cotton. With the land building program and the production of more feed, a good flock of laying hens will fit in nicely, since there is a ready market for eggs.

Mrs. W. E. Finley, Columbiana, Rt. 1, in 1938 sold $885.40 worth of chickens and eggs, with a feed and chick cost of $395.70, leaving a profit of $489.70. This was a profit of $40.80 per month for the entire year.

Mrs. J. F. Wyatt, Vincent, Rt. 1, in 1938 sold $845.66 worth of chickens and eggs, with a feed and chick cost of $417.30, leaving a profit of $428.36, or $35.70 per month for the year.

The home-grown corn and other feeds were charged to the hens at market price, giving a cash market for the feeds.

These 2 flocks of laying hens brought in considerably more money than the average cotton crop in the county, and this type of flock could be carried on the average farm in Shelby County and bring in the much-needed cash income. Sure, it takes work and attention—but what doesn't that is worthwhile?

Now is the time to prepare for the baby chicks. If there is not already a brooder house on the farm, some old building could be remodeled and a brick or rock brooder built at very little cost.

If this office can be of help in your poultry program, call on us.—A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

"Scientific Consumer Purchasing" Is Title of Work by Association of University Women

Review of Book Given
By Miss Nora Landmark
Local Publicity Director

What the well-informed woman shopper should know is outlined in a handbook titled "Scientific Consumer Purchasing," issued in a revised form today by the American Association of University Women.

Two entirely new chapters, "Prices and the Consumer's Interest" and "Consumer Cooperatives as a Means of Supplying Consumer Needs," are included by the reviser, Alice L. Edwards, former executive secretary of the American Home Economics Association and member of the A. A. U. W. Committee on Social Studies.

Informative selling, informative advertising, informative labeling, are stressed throughout the book.

"It is not generally recognized that the apparent caprice of women's buying results in part from the fact that they are unable to procure accurate descriptions of the construction and performance of goods displayed for sale," the handbook says.

Manufacturer as well as consumer would profit by the more informative method, the book holds, remarking: "It is significant that the advertising manager of a large mail order house has reported that whenever specifications for a commodity appeared in a catalogue, sales of that commodity increased."

Another argument is: "The appearance of such phrases as 'thread count,' 'octane rating,' and 'will not shrink over one per cent' in advertising and on labels indicates that manufacturers are realizing that wide-awake customers appreciate the value of precise descriptions and standards."

Chapters outline scientific research studies and demonstrations in the following commodities, "which have already received sufficient attention from consumers and business interest to give reasonable promise of more satisfactory adjustments, if feasible proposals are supported by intelligent and consistent consumer demand:" "Hosiery," "Sheets and Blankets," "Bedding and Upholstery," "Refrigerators," and "Canned Fruits and Vegetables."

A few of the consumer facts from these chapters: The president of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers estimated the retail value of all hosiery shipments for 1937 at $523,265,000, of which $371,400,000 was for women's hose, $90,400 for men's hose, the remainder for children's hose. Regulation of the manufacture and sale of bedding is considered so important that over one-third of the states have enacted laws for this purpose. It is estimated that one-third of a billion grade-labels were used on canned fruits and vegetables in 1937. Two cities, Seattle and Schenectady, made quality-grading of meat compulsory.

Some of the pertinent questions asked: "Should the results of government tests be available to consumers? What arguments are advanced against this? Are they convincing? How useful would such information be to household buyers?" "How susceptible are you to 'psychology of salesmanship' techniques? Do you insist on being given facts? How much factual information were you able to secure from the last salesman who came to your door?"

Individuals, college classes, and A. A. U. W. study groups will use this pamphlet, as previous editions have been used since 1932, to study consumption economics. Its basic philosophy is stated as follows:

"The situation of the consumer in the present market is such as to challenge the interest and active consideration of every intelligent and socially-minded individual. Women, especially, study consumer problems because most of them have major responsibility for the selection and purchase of both individual and household commodities. Their responsibility is not alone a matter of selecting suitable commodities for their own use and that of their families; it is really something much larger, and socially more significant. With every purchase they are contributing, not only to the support of the store in which they buy, but also to the kind of manufacturing represented by the integrity or its lack which characterizes the article chosen. An increasing number of consumers are becoming concerned about the labor conditions and management problems which affect social welfare. The consumer may well ask herself: Is the profit represented in the sums I am paying for goods going for the support of businesses that put out truthfully-represented products, made of safe materials, designed to meet genuine consumer needs, and produced and marketed under socially-acceptable conditions? Or does it go to manufacturers and retailers of shoddy, deceptive, or useless goods? It is to our own advantage, as well as to that of society as a whole, that men of integrity remain in business and are not driven out by the producer and distributor of gerry-built and worthless products, or those promoted by unfair or antisocial methods. Herein lies the larger challenge to consumer education."

Hunters Warned of Dangers of Rabbit Fever Germs

Hunters were warned today of the danger of contracting tularemia, or rabbit fever, by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, who pointed out that this disease was caused by a small germ introduced into the bodies of wild rabbits and certain other rodents by the bite of the rabbit tick, wood tick, deer fly, or horsefly, and transmitted to persons by the handling of diseased members of the rodent family.

"Unfortunately, no vaccine has been developed that has been found effective as either a cure or preventive of tularemia," he said. "When it is once contracted, it must be allowed to run its course, which means that months of invalidism or semi-invalidism must be the fate of those who contract it. It is, therefore, the part of wisdom to take the simple precautions to prevent it."

The State Health Officer urged hunters and others to observe the following precautions:

"Don't shoot rabbits that appear sluggish, dazed and slow of movement, as these are the symptoms of tularemia. Use rubber gloves when handling or dressing rabbits, even when they appear healthy. Keep your hands away from your face while handling rabbits. Burn or sterilize all articles that have come in contact with rabbits or other game. And finally, be sure that the rabbit meat you eat is thoroughly cooked, since the germs responsible for tularemia are readily killed by heat."

Last Word in Convenience

The desire to make a car reflect its owner's individuality is a potent factor in the average motorist's choice of accessory equipment. And it would be hard to find a more thoroughly "personalized" car than this new Chevrolet in which Mary Pickford is shown applying a touch of makeup. As if the handy illuminated vanity mirror were not enough, the car has a special kit of Miss Pickford's own famous beauty aids, now on the market under her name. The container, holding lipstick, rouge, powder and cream, folds neatly up into the glove compartment when not in use. Inset shows close-up of vanity case.

AN ELEVATOR IN THE STATE CAPITOL

It is noted with interest that somebody will introduce a bill appropriating $25,000 to install an elevator in the State Capitol building.

We don't like the idea. It is pure extravagance.

Those people who may feel the inconvenience of going up and down the winding stairs of the capitol in pursuit of their daily bread (politics, lobbying, et cetera) do not have any harder time than their brothers and sisters and neighbors who dig in the fields and mines and labor in the factories for the one and same purpose—daily existence.

Keep on climbing them steps, boys. You need the exercise of muscles anyhow.

Don't waste our money for things we can get along without.

THIS IS BOY SCOUT WEEK

This, as many informed folk already know, is Boy Scout Week, celebrating the 29th birthday of the Boy Scouts of America, a movement that has already appealed to 8,400,000 American boys and men.

Such success as the Boy Scout scheme has had is due chiefly, aside from its inherent imaginative appeal for boys, to the fact that thousands of devoted men have given time and money—but chiefly time—quite unselfishly in order that the boys who became Scouts might have the advantage of their counsel and experience. No similar social agency in the history of the world has ever engaged so many men as volunteers and their willingness and desire to be of some use is a tribute to the sort of unselfishness which is a component of the essential American character.

These Scout leaders have not given in vain, for there is ample evidence that the Boy Scouts of America have become among those consistently active in carrying out the service motive in our national life. This has always been amply demonstrated in times of emergency and is likewise to be discovered in ordinary days by many signs. Not the least of them is the fact that many, in fact, most of those becoming Boy Scout leaders in the past several years have previously been Scouts and are seizing upon that way of repaying the debt due their own Scoutmasters. This is significant evidence that the Scout creed of helpfulness to others is a working doctrine.

County Health Department Notes

Statisticians have estimated that about the year 1970 the population of the United States will have reached its maximum and then will begin to decline.

The birth and death ratio for Shelby County in 1938 does not seem to bear out this statement, as there were 625 births to 274 deaths.

Almost a mile of drainage ditches have been completed in the vicinity of Calera to eliminate breeding places of the malaria carrying mosquito. Areas in several other sections of the county have already been surveyed for drainage.

In the drive against rabies, 3,902 dogs were inoculated or disposed of in Shelby County during 1938. This considerably lessens the likelihood of development of cases of human rabies and represents a large saving in valuable livestock which have, in the past, been frequently bitten by rabid dogs.

During 1938, 1,928 people were vaccinated against smallpox, 1,980 were immunized against typhoid, and 1,021 babies and children were given diphtheria toxoid.

One thousand, two hundred and ninety-nine children were given the Schick test to determine whether or not they were immune to diphtheria.—E. F. Sloan, M. D., County Health Officer.

February Is Time To Start Pastures

Auburn, Ala.—The month of February is the time to start a pasture on most Alabama soils, says W. H. Gregory, associate extension specialist in agronomy. The pasture should be located on moist fertile bottom land, because adequate moisture is the first requirement for growing grass. On a great many farms in Alabama there are creek bottoms or spring heads now growing alders and button willows, which if cleared and properly fertilized and seeded, would make as pastures the most valuable acres on the farm.

In preparing land for pastures it should be well broken and disced to make a good firm seedbed, or if the ground is too stumpy, it should be thoroughly scratched up both ways with a spring-tooth harrow. There should be worked into the soil 1,000 pounds of superphosphate and a ton of ground limestone to the acre for best results. However, if this is impossible, a smaller annual application may be used. Naturally, in the lime lands of the Black Belt the lime is unnecessary, and on the extremely acid lands of the Black Belt two or three times as much lime should be used.

For most soils of the state not less than ten pounds of common lespedeza, two pounds of white Dutch clover, and three pounds of imported Dallis grass should be sown during the month of February. On the limestone valley and Piedmont soils there should be added to this mixture eight pounds of blue grass and ten pounds of orchard grass. On the Sand Mountain soils, to the base application should be added two pounds of red top, five pounds of orchard grass, and two pounds of Kentucky bluegrass. On the lime lands of the Black Belt ten pounds of black medic should be substituted for the ten pounds of common lespedeza.

MALONE URGES BILL TO LEGALIZE LIQUOR

Senator W. W. Malone of Athens announced Tuesday he would offer a bill this week to provide that Alabama state stores liquor purchased for personal use may be legally possessed anywhere in the state.

The Alabama supreme court has held that under the state's local option liquor law, alcoholic beverages cannot be possessed legally in dry counties regardless of whether they were purchased in state stores in wet counties.

County Boys Buy Registered Calves

Eight Shelby County 4-H Club boys recently purchased nine registered Jersey heifers from some of the leading Jersey cattle farmers in Tennessee. These boys are planning to develop registered Jersey herds for home milk consumption and some cream production for the Birmingham market.

These calves are bought primarily for their milk production, however, they will make an excellent showing in any show ring. The Birmingham show will find these calves near the top.

Four Jersey bulls were also placed with leading farmers in the county. The animals were placed as follows:

Sam Adkins, Montevallo; Bobby Walters, Helena, (two); Frank Wolf, Wilsonville; Adam Gunter, Vincent, Rt. 1; R. J. Ray, Vincent, Rt. 1; Douglas Wyatt, Vincent, Rt. 1; Coleman Moore, Vincent; A. G. Embry, Calcas, Bulls; Lee J. Embry, Calcas; Frank Chesser, Chelsea; Britt Ingram, Wilsonville; Pierce A. Garrett, Calera.

It is very important that the home dairy herd be built up in Shelby County. It costs just as much to keep a grade, low producing animal as it does a high producer. Be sure and improve your herd by using good bulls. The bulls now in the Shelby County Bull Association and ready for service are located with S. E. McGraw, Vincent; J. D. Walters, Helena; Pierce A. Garrett, Calera; J. M. Lowe, Vincent; J. C. Brumbaugh, Harpersville; and Orin Pearson, Shelby.

Curb Market At Gadsden Is Praised In Report

Gadsden, Ala.—That the Gadsden curb market has been a "life saver" for many Etowah County farm families is evidenced by the following report by Mrs. Diana B. Williams, home demonstration agent.

"The Gadsden curb market is fifteen years old—in fact, it is the oldest curb market in the state, and does a business of $75,000 to $150,000 per year. Only farmers who produce their products are allowed to sell on the market. About 500 sellers secure permits annually, each seller paying a very small amount for the permit. Individual stalls or booths are available to those sellers desiring permanent locations.

"The year-round sellers realize the greatest benefits from the market. In the summer months it is not unusual for a man to sell as much as $50 worth in a day. There were so many sellers last summer that temporary tables had to be added and on a few occasions some sellers had to be turned away. Total sales for 1938 amounted to $118,563.

"Following are some results of a few of our sellers:

"R. A. Norris, Rt. 3 Boaz, does not come to the market but once a week, except through the summer months when he had fruits to sell. From his curb market sales in 1938 he now has material to build a new barn; has put in an electric pump and water in his house; has bought 10 small electric appliances, an electric fence, and radio. He says he could not get along without the curb market. He sells about $30 worth of fruits and eggs each Saturday.

"Bob Humphrey, R. 3, Albertville, sold 1,000 bushels of sweet potatoes at an average of $1.40 per bushel, or $1,400. He sold $750 worth of eggs and vegetables.

"Mrs. Allen Satterfield, R. 1, Glencoe, has been selling on the market since it started. In 1938 she sold $150 worth of sausage, backbone and ribs. In addition, she sold $1,300 worth of other products. She paid standing rent of $180 and bought everything the family had. She buys the cows, cars, and everything she has and is making a better living than ever before, she says.

"J. F. Potts, Rt. 1, Alabama City, sold during the first ten months of the year $242.60 worth of eggs, and $1,035.70 worth of vegetables, a total of $1,278.30. Mr. Potts has been selling on the market since it was organized—in fact, he says he made the first sale, a bunch of turnips.

"R. B. Haygood, Rt. 1, Boaz, sold $500 worth on the market in six months. He had less than one-fourth acre in butterbeans and the season was very dry, but he sold $66.90 worth, besides providing all he needed at home. He ceiled his house and lived off his curb market sales."

Half Way Between Playhouse and Home—

The Girl Scout Little House

Mothers, if you were asked to make a wish, the one nearest and dearest to your hearts, what would it be? You would probably wish that your daughters would have homes of their own, and that your sons would choose wives who could make them true homes.

Halfway between the playhouse of childhood and the home she will make some day, the Girl Scout finds the "Little Girl Scout House," where with other girls she sallies forth into adventurous activities. There are Little Girl Scout Houses in more than sixty-five communities throughout the United States. They all grew from the Little Girl Scout House in Washington, presented to the national organization by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Here the Girl Scouts demonstrate their abilities as real homemakers, developing the idea of beauty and simplicity in the home.

Homemaking Center

In every community where a Little House exists, it is recognized as a Girl Scout homemaking center. The girls have an opportunity to share in real homemaking, and what a joy it is. There is the further adventure of planning meals, shopping for them, preparing the food and serving it to mothers or other friends. This is why the Little Girl Scout House is the half-way stop between the playhouse of childhood and the home that every mother wants to see her daughter make for herself.

Homemaking to the Girl Scout is a delightful game to be played with keen enjoyment and to be played well. There is a zest in cooking, dusting, cleaning silver, making beds, laundry work, and many other homey tasks among a group of girls. Every Girl Scout learns at least the rudiments of cooking and housekeeping, how to give simple first aid, to sew and to take care of baby brother. And Girl Scouting teaches her to do these tasks cheerfully and willingly. More important than the skills the Girl Scout learns are the underlying principles of Girl Scouting, a set of ideals, expressed by the Promise and the Laws that she accepts and tries to live by. She is not only a girl who knows woodcraft, signs and what to do in case of fire, or how to demonstrate life saving methods. She is a girl who is honest and trustworthy; who can live and work and play with others, is considerate of them, but able to make her own decisions. Above all she is a gay and willing young person, a standard bearer who has found through Girl Scouting a way of life.

Girl Scout Promise

On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country; to help other people at all times; to obey the Girl Scout Laws.

Girl Scout Laws

1. A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted.
 2. A Girl Scout is loyal.
 3. A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and help others.
 4. A Girl Scout is a friend to all, and sister to every other Girl Scout.
 5. A Girl Scout is courteous.
 6. A Girl Scout is a friend to animals.
 7. A Girl Scout obeys orders.
 8. A Girl Scout is cheerful.
 9. A Girl Scout is thrifty.
 10. A Girl Scout is clean in thought, word, and deed.
- The Girl Scout Motto—"Be Prepared."
- The Girl Scout Slogan—"Do a Good Turn Daily."

CALERA, ALA.

Friends of Mrs. T. J. Halfacre regret very much to learn of her recent illness. We hope for her a hasty recovery as she was missed by many at Sunday School last Sunday.

Mr. Bud Norwood was at home Sunday after several days at the Capitol in Montgomery. His friends are happy to learn that he has accepted a position with a state department.

Mr. W. A. Sims who has been ill for some time is still very sick. His friends are missing his presence at church. May he soon be able to return.

Mrs. Henry Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sims, and her children are now residing with her parents in Calera.

Reverend T. J. Halfacre preached to a large audience Sunday at the Baptist Church. The spirit of our Calera Christians was shown by their attendance at church. Members of other churches cooperated in one good cause.

Mrs. Ronald Armstrong was in town Sunday.

Mr. Carl Ballard visited in Calera during the week-end.

Mr. Eric Elliott spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. C. B. Elliott.

Miss Bessie Gunn spent a while in Calera on Friday.

Mr. John Miller of Montgomery visited his sister, Mrs. C. B. Elliott, last Saturday.

Misses Anne George and Mary Culver have recently taken over the management of the City Cafe in Calera. We wish these girls much success in their business.

Mr. Murphree Crowson has returned to Birmingham where he is still under the treatment of his physician.

There will be a meeting of the Christian Radio Association in Calera on Friday night, February 10, at the Nazarene Church. All Christians who would like to take part in the work of this association are requested to attend. This organiza-

Lauderdale Advises Shelby County Farmers To Plant Kudzu

Kudzu is a very fine grazing and hay crop, as well as a good land building crop. Kudzu will stop "gullying" of land and at the same time produce a tremendous amount of high quality hay or pasture.

The average farm needs to increase livestock for home use and to bring in additional cash. Before livestock can be produced profitably, there must be an abundance of home-grown feed. A good stand of kudzu will produce about 2 tons of hay per acre, equal to alfalfa in quality; 4 acres of kudzu will produce 8 tons of hay, or enough for 2 mules and 2 cows.

The fine thing about kudzu is that the annual cost of seed and planting is saved, which you have in such crops as cowpeas and soybeans.

Kudzu is only a temporary pasture crop, but comes in fine in late summer and fall when the season is usually dry and permanent pasture runs short.

Under the government farm program farmers are paid $6 per acre out of the soil building allowance for planting kudzu.

Kudzu will do well on practically all well-drained soils. The land should be turned and prepared about as for cotton, and if the kudzu is to be used for hay, the land should be left about as level and smooth as possible for mowing. The plants should be set in rows 10 feet apart and 6 feet in the drill; this will take about 725 plants per acre.

Kudzu should be fertilized with 400 to 500 pounds of basic slag per acre. The plants or crowns should be set when they are dormant, and February is about the best month to plant.

As one of the best crops for the average farm, I want to urge you to plant one acre or more during February. If I can be of help, call on me.—A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

tion hopes to get Christians organized for the purpose of getting a radio broadcasting station dedicated to God's cause. It is a call for all Christians to unite for one common cause, the spread of the Gospel in the quickest possible time by radio.

Mr. S. M. Tomlin is still confined to his home on account of illness. His friends hope to see him about town again soon.

Perhaps you have done the same thing. Perhaps you've looked everywhere for a stocking that would be as strong as it was pretty... as long-wearing as it was sheer... as color-right as it was elastic. Stop hunting! Berkshire Stockings are a lifetime brand. That's why they call them "The Stockings that Become a Habit!"

BERKSHIRE STOCKINGS

Television Keynote of Exhibit

In a unique building within a building, the scientific marvel of the modern age—television—will be demonstrated by the Radio Corporation of America to the crowds thronging the San Francisco World's Fair.

The exhibit will be housed in a complete structure of its own, occupying approximately 25,000 square feet of floor space under the roof of the Electrical and Communications building near the main entrance to the Exposition on Treasure Island.

Half of the space will be occupied by the television equipment, together with a demonstration of radio facsimile and exhibits of broadcasting equipment, marine radio devices and many other important services of the radio art. The other half, not shown in the plan above, will be furnished as a large, comfortable lounge in which visitors may rest while listening to recorded music and viewing interesting murals and photographs of the radio industry.

Thousands of people daily will pass in front of the television camera, the operation of which will be explained to them by guides. Proceeding to another part of the exhibit, visitors will see televised images as they appear on the kinescope tubes in RCA home television receivers. Large photographs and drawings will show details of the complete television system and circuits.

The novel building in which these and other marvels of radio will be shown, is ultra-modern in design and construction. It was planned by John Vassos, noted industrial stylist. Its chrome, white and silver trim, set off by the green and blue tints of the glass brick which form part of the walls, makes it one of the most striking exhibits at the Exposition.
